TRAMPS ROUNDED UP.

Four Hoboes Taken to Centre Street Police Station.

Patrolmen Boland and Conner yesterday afternoon rounded up a gang of professional tramps, one of whom threw himself on the railroad track near the Lackawanna freight house, whether for suicidal purposes or not is a matter of conjecture, when he saw the officers.

This particular hobo was a cripple and had a crutch. He obstinately refused to walk to the station, and the patrolmen called for help. Three young men in the crowd which had gathered volunteered their services, and carried the weary one to the Centre street police station.

Three other tramps were nearby, and were also taken into custody on the charge of vagrancy. Two of them are one-armed men. Last night still another was arrested by Patrolman Lona Day.

These men are the members of an organized gang of professional tramps, who have been making their headquarters at a lower Lackawanna avenue saloon. They have been on the streets for some time and have been causing considerable trouble by begging for alms on the strength of ailments, which in some cases are purely fictitious, the missing arms, legs, etc., being brought into active use as soon as they reach their lodging house. When refused alms they have become very abusive, and several complaints have been registered, concerning the one-legged man in particular.

Yesterday one of their number, who is the treasurer, president, secretary, etc., of the association which they have formed, was stopped by a patrolman and warned to stop annoying people on the street. He promised to do so and added he would get out of town. A short while later the crowd was discovered in front of their hotel, and on seeing the officers took to their heels. They were then arrested, as told above. A crowd of about two hundred people accompanied the party to the police station.

About 12:30 o'clock last night, Patrolman Lona Day entered the Centre street police station, and ascending the stairs to the upper regions, speedily returned with one solitary lodger, whom he introduced to Sergeant Jones as another member of the gang of tramps.

He had accosted Patrolman Day earlier in the night and said he had just got in town. The officer sent him around to the police station, and later learned that he had been seen around the streets begging alms, and exposing a sore on his arm.

At the station his left sleeve was raised, and it was seen that he had a sore on the arm. He was clapped into a cell, and will receive a hearing together with the other members of the gang this morning.

TRIO OF DESERTED HUSBANDS GRANTED DIVORCES.

One of Them Was Granted by Judge Kelly—It Was in the Case Where Rose Suravitz Abused her Husband and Six Step Children and Then Absented Herself from Their Home—Dairy Company Contracts Alleged to Be Illegal—No Pay for Councilmen.

Three divorces were granted yesterday by Judge Kelly. The last was in the case of Jacob Suravitz against Rosa Suravitz. Three years ago, Jacob was looking about for a wife for himself and a step-mother for his six children. A friend named Greenberg recommended Rosa, and Jacob went to New York, where she lived, to look her up. He found her to be young and good-looking, and anxious to marry. He brought her home with him, married her and installed her as mistress of his home at 423 Raymond court.

In a very few days Rosa tired of her duties as housewife. Things went from bad to worse, till finally her conduct became intolerable and Jacob decided to rid himself of her.

At the hearing before Judge Kelly, last Saturday, it was shown that Mrs. Suravitz, among other things, had thrown a coffee pot at her husband, called the children bad names, and came home one night from a ball "good and drunk," as Mrs. Suravitz' oldest daughter put it. She also frequently went away for weeks at a time, and once remained in New York city for nine months without her husband having any knowledge of her whereabouts. Thomas P. Duffy was attorney for Mr. Suravitz.

Charles Molter, of 1012 Prospect avenue, a freeman on the Lackawanna road, secured a divorce from his wife, Harriet Smith Molter, on the ground of desertion. It was also alleged that she was guilty of unbecoming conduct, her father-in-law, Charles Molter, testifying to having discovered her and her sister carousing with two men, and that she was seen smoking a cigar.

This occurred at Elmira. It is alleged, shortly after her marriage in January, 1892. Four years later she deserted him while they were living at Bentley's Creek, and nothing has been heard from her since.

W. C. Taylor, of Philo street, secured a divorce from his wife, Mrs. L. Arnold Taylor, on the ground of desertion. They were married in Binghamton, February 20, 1891, having eloped from Green Ridge, where both resided. Two months later she went away and a few years ago, when she came back to Green Ridge on a visit, she had a two-year-old child with her, which she said was her own. She claimed she made her residence in Chicago. George D. Taylor was his attorney.

Dairy Company's Contracts.

If what H. E. Haney contends is true, all the contracts made by the Lackawanna Dairy company, when it bought out the business and stock of the small milk dealers, are illegal and not binding.

The matter is to be tested in an equity suit, instituted yesterday by the dairy company against Mr. Haney. The latter was a member of a firm of Gardner & Haney, which sold out to the dairy company, January 12, 1898, agreeing not to re-engage directly or indirectly in the milk business in this locality for five years. The consideration was $500.

Three weeks ago Mr. Haney, it is alleged, in violation of this agreement, started in business for himself, peddling milk in this city.

The company yesterday went into court, through Attorney John F. Spragg, and applied for a preliminary injunction to compel Haney to live up to the terms of his contract.

Judge Archibald declined to interfere until the matter had been heard finally. An early date is to be fixed for argument.

The defendant, it is understood, will not deny the allegations set forth in the plaintiff's bill, but will contend that the contract is illegal, because it is in restriction of trade.

Pay for Councilmen Illegal.

On petition of Welles & Torrey, representing the Delaware and Hudson Canal company, Herman Ostheimer, appointed auditor, Jan. 16, 1899, to ascertain the indebtedness of Oliphant borough. Yesterday the auditor made his report and as contended for by the petitioners, he disallowed the item of $100 for pay for councilmen for committee work. The report was confirmed conditionally.

The total indebtedness exclusive of the outstanding bonds, which were not germane to the inquiry and not considered, was on May 27, 1898, $10,263.43. The cost of the inquiry was $358.73.

Busy Session of Argument Court.

Argument court was in session all yesterday, with Judges Archibald, Edwards and Kelly on the bench. The latter was called upon to retire several times, because of his having been interested as an attorney in the case under discussion.

Lengthy arguments were made in the case of David Spruks against J. L. Connell & Co., in which the plaintiff seeks to restrain the defendant firm from using the term "Quaker Girl" as a brand name for its product. It is an illegal imitation of the trademark "Pennsylvania Quaker" used on a cigar manufactured by him. The demurrer was not sustained, but court intimated very pointedly that when the case came to be heard finally that the suit would be dismissed.

In the case of Duncan McMurtre, assigned to Bittenbender & Co., against Old Forge borough and Old Forge township, the rule for a new trial was discharged, and judgment was directed to enter on the verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $2,318.27.

The demurrer was overruled in the case of James B. Doyle & Co. against St. David's Episcopal church, with leave to the defendant to file an answer.

In the case of William H. Evans against Carbondale township, the rule for a mandamus execution was made absolute and the township treasurer directed to pay the judgment from the first money coming into his hands.

The case of L. B. Grosvenor against S. J. Cook and others was ordered stricken from the list.

The case of Hollister against the Scranton Poor district was ordered transferred to the equity list.

Other cases were dealt with as follows:

Continued—George Spritz against Steve Buffalo, rule to open judgment; Michael Finerty against John Finerty, rule to pay costs; Henry Wood against Susan M. Wood, divorce; A. P. Duffy against A. G. Gilmore, exception to report of master; Carrie M. Peck against Edward Peck, divorce.

Rule absolute—Peck Lumbar Manufacturing company against Rudolph Blesner, rule to pay money into court; borough of Taylor against Postal Telegraph company, rule to open judgment for want of a sufficient affidavit of defense.

Argued—E. H. Huntington against J. D. Williams, rule for a new trial; George Muschler against Garney, Brown & Company, rule to strike off non-suit; Mary Monroe against Finn & Phillips, rule for judgment; E. E. Lockard, administrator, against M. T. Keller, rule for judgment; Alice Scanlon, trustee, against Edward Burke, rule to set aside judgment; John Benore & Son against B. E. Leonard, demurrer and special master.

Submitted—Harriet Bailey against John Bailey, divorce; Eliza Alwood against James F. Alwood, divorce; Kate Mall against John Mall, divorce; matter of the adoption of Arline and Cora Mullins and Mabel Smith, Becky Nelberg against Abraham Nelberg, divorce; Maria Burges against Oscar C. Burges, divorce; Schuchman against Mary Rinsland, divorce.

Settled—John J. Fahey against W. B. Buane and other, rule for judgment; Michael Moran against P. F. McDonnell, rule to credit on judgment.

Off list—Hower & Stender against August Walther.

Proceedings reversed—Gus Greenberg against John Doe and others, certiorari.

A SWEEPING RESOLUTION.

If Passed It Will Cause Work for Electric Light Company.

If a resolution recently introduced in select council by Councilman John E. Roche ever becomes operative it will mean a vast amount of work for the Scranton Electric Light and Power company. It is now being considered by the light and water committee of select.

The resolution provides that all electric street lights shall be eighteen feet only from the ground and that they shall be suspended from mast arms, which shall extend three feet from the pole. As at present arranged the large majority of the street lights are placed directly on top of the poles which are from thirty to forty feet in height. If the resolution passes, it will, of course, be necessary to change all of these lights.

In explaining the resolution Mr. Roche says that after consulting with a number of persons throughout the city he has arrived at the conclusion that by having the lights at a height of eighteen feet will allow a better and more even diffusion of the light than under existing conditions. The clause providing that lights be hung from mast arms, which is intended to prevent any danger of accident to the workmen changing the carbons. By mast arms the lamps can be lowered and trimmed from the street.

THAT LIBRARY RESOLUTION.

Special Committee Will Report Adversely on It.

The special common council committee, consisting of Messrs. Keller, Calpin, Teekeshaw, Ziesler and T. F. Morris, to whom was referred the now celebrated resolution providing for the auditing of claims against the public library, will meet this evening at 7 o'clock and will prepare an adverse report on the resolution for presentation to council, which convenes at 8 o'clock.

City Solicitor Vosburg has prepared a written opinion on the question, in which it is understood that he says there are legal reasons which would prevent the enforcement of its provisions. The fact that select council has reconsidered its action on the matter, and indefinitely postponed the same, does not prevent common council from doing as it will with the resolution.

Common council tonight will also act upon the resolutions awarding the contracts for the several new sewers to the lowest bidders.

James R. Keene's Loyalty.

From the Saturday Evening Post.
One of the strongest traits of character of James R. Keene, the Wall street multi-millionaire operator, is his loyalty to his friends. He is said never to give up one when trouble comes. Among his early associates after he came to New York from the west is an elderly man, now broken in health and fortune. Years ago, side by side, they fought the strenuous fight. After one victory came a defeat. The other could not rally, and all that he had was lost—all except Mr. Keene's remembrance. It is said that he receives at regular intervals an income sufficient to relieve his necessities from a "forgotten investment" made with the California broker years ago. Another instance of his staunchness happened not long since. A well-known man "on-the-street" who had been intimately connected with Mr. Keene and his associates, lost all of his accumulations in an outside venture. He was more than sixty years old, and a self-reliant and hopeful. "I think I can endure the Klondike," he said bravely to Mr. Keene. "There's no use hanging around the old scenes."

"Come in and see me tomorrow," replied the millionaire.

That evening Mr. Keene mentioned the sturdy resolve to a group of old friends, and the next day he turned over to the man who was down a sum of money sufficient to defray expenses in the Klondike for two years. "If he strikes luck," said Mr. Keene to his friends, "he will be glad and our money will come back. If he fails, we won't get the money. That show of the right spirit is worth it twice over."

It is two years since then and the latest news from Alaska is that the old prospector has located claims worth something like a quarter of a million dollars and intends paying New York, and his friends a visit.

BRILLIANT WEDDING AT THE CATHEDRAL

MISS MERRIMAN AND ATTORNEY LYNCH MARRIED.

Ceremony Performed by Rev. D. J. MacGoldrick—Bridesmaids Were the Misses Robinson, Sherer and Lynch—Groom Was Attended by Edward Lawrence Smith, of Hartford, Conn.—Reception at Home of the Bride's Parents, Mr. and Mrs. Friend Merriman, of Dunmore.

There have been many pretty weddings in St. Peter's cathedral, but it is generally conceded that the one celebrated in that church last evening at 6:30 o'clock, when Miss Helen Merriman, of Dunmore, was married to Mr. Francis Martin Lynch, of Oliphant, was the most attractive ever witnessed within its walls. The soft gloom, the long aisle, the fair procession and the picturesque group at the altar during the beautiful services, made a scene impressive to a degree.

The ushers, Theodore Matthew Conner, of Northampton, Mass.; Leo Lynch and Bartholomew Lynch, conducted the bridal party. The bridesmaids were Miss Anna B. Robinson, Miss Bess M. Sherer and Miss Grace M. Lynch. They wore white organdie with accordion platings and insertion and carried long sprays of anemone lilies. Their veils were of pale green tulle, fastened with lilies of the valley, which were also worn as a corsage bouquet. Their sashes were of the same shade of green. Miss Nan Merriman, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and was attired as were the bridesmaids.

The bride is a beautiful girl with a radiant, sunny expression ever present on her face. She wore an exquisite gown of white satin trimmed with duchesse lace. She carried lilies, and her veil was held by the same flowers. She entered with her father and met the groom and his best man, Mr. Edward Lawrence Smith, of Hartford, Conn. Rev. D. J. MacGoldrick performed the ceremony.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Friend Merriman, on Elm street, Dunmore. The picturesque house was lavishly adorned, many stately white lilies entering into the scheme of decoration. A very large number of guests were entertained. It is seldom that so many pretty girls are seen at one function. The receiving party consisted of the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Friend Merriman, Mrs. Mary E. Lynch, Miss Merriman, Mr. Edward Smith, Miss Robinson, Miss Sherer, Miss Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. John Howell Farrer, Dr. and Mrs. George Coo Merriman.

Mrs. Thomas E. Jones, Mrs. W. W. Patterson, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Townsend Poore and Mrs. E. C. Dimmick presided at the table. Serving in the dining room were: Miss Dorothy D'Amick, Miss Katherine Dunham, Miss Lydia Poore, Miss Sarah Fordham, Miss Mary Hecker, Allen town; Miss Carrie Lince, Great Bond; Miss Minnie Morse, Miss Lillian Gearhart, Miss Lavinia Dimmick and Miss Louise Matthews served lemonade.

Those who assisted in entertaining were: Mrs. C. K. Trumbower, of West Pittston; Mrs. Edson M. Green, Mrs. Preston Robinson, Miss Donovan, Mrs. D. W. Connolly, Miss Young, Mrs. Horn, Miss Jones, Oliphant; Mrs. George Grant Brooks, Miss Dunham, Miss Heath, Miss Morse, Miss Randolph, Miss Rachel Conner, and Miss Ada King.

Mr. Lynch is one of the prominent members of the younger bar of Lackawanna county. Mr. Smith, the groomsmen, and Mr. Conner, one of the ushers, were classmates of Mr. Lynch at Yale.

MAKING GOOD ALDERMEN.

Remarkable Work of a Few Earnest Men in Chicago.

Henry L. Fuller in the Saturday Evening Post tells of the remarkable work done by the Municipal Voters' League of Chicago. "The Municipal Voters' League handles nothing but aldermen and is in active business but six or eight weeks in the spring of the year. Yet this suffices: a handful of men have given Chicago its first decent common council in a quarter of a century."

"Half a dozen men—a stationer, an architect, a real-estate dealer, an ex-alderman and so on—say to the passive, but well-disposed citizen: 'Help us with a small subscription and we will keep the town fit to live in. Ten thousand dollars will do it. Seven thousand did it in 1899. We will give our time, taken from our business, and our money, taken from our pocket, to make good aldermen.'"

"The fact is, the Municipal Voters' League of Chicago is a handful of men who have given Chicago its first decent common council in a quarter of a century."
